PERSONAL LEDGER ACCOUNTS

DAY - 1

SESSION - I

Accounts (also known as Personal Deposit Accounts) broadly fall into two categories, viz., those operated within the consolidated fund of the State and those in the Public Account. The opening of a Personal Ledger Account under the consolidated fund of the State requires the approval of the State Government in consultation with the Accountant General. According to the guidelines issued by the Comptroller & Auditor General of India in his letter No. 443-01, dated 10th March 1961, & 1341, P.L. Accounts under the consolidated fund are opened in special circumstances when special procedure of drawing & presentation of bills proves unworkable in respect of any special sub-account of the Government. Further, such accounts should have gross working receipts exceeding Rs. 1 lakh in a year and should have considerable receipts.

The Personal Ledger Accounts under the Public Account are opened after the sanction of the Government is issued in consultation with the Accountant General.

Preamble

Personal Deposit Accounts have been in vogue since the inception of Government accounts or it can be said to be synonymous with accounting system. The origin of Personal Deposit Accounts can be traced in various accounting systems but for discussion purposes in this article we will restrict it to our accounting system, which has been laid down by the British but almost adopted in toto after independence. So, historically it can be said that our accounting system definitely provides for P.D. Accounts and the Office of the Comptroller & Auditor General of India especially deals with the provisions of Personal Ledger Account. Truly, PLA is one of the types of PDA. The creation of this facility was aimed at giving more flexibility to Drawing & Disbursing Officers basically to ensure implementation of government policies in a time bound manner. It was actually intended to give support to the Head of Departments for speedier implementation of policies/projects. But of late it has been seen that the purpose of extending this facility is being vitiated in such a way that it amounts to excess. Though it may be said for the benefit
